CII Registered Provider (RP) Program

The CII Registered Provider (RP) program is made up from the Registered Educational Provider Program (REPP) and the Registered Advisor Program (RAP) and now offers both educational and advisory services for CII member organizations.

Advisory Services

Pathfinder supports and facilitates a higher level of adoption of CII “Best Practices” which many organizations struggle to implement.

Pathfinder is available to support your organization in defining the CII Best Practices that best suit your project planning and delivery needs. This is executed through an efficient gap assessment of the tools and practices that already exist within your organization and what industry (CII) practices are available to fill the gaps. This process also evaluates your processes and practices against similar CII processes and practices and provides a score card in support of a gap closure plan.

In addition, Pathfinder also has industry proven implementation strategies to incorporate CII references into your day to day project delivery methodologies. These implementation steps include:

- CII Documentation tailored to seamlessly integrate with your existing practices
- Company culture change, in support of the Best Practice approach
- Customized training built around the integrated practices
- Mentor programs
- Etc.

We provide a framework of support with a corps of qualified implementation advisors and instructors knowledgeable and experienced with the CII practices and methodologies listed below.

Educational Services

Pathfinder's 5-day, three-module professional development continuing education session for the project management community is a resource to help organizations plan the development of new construction project managers (those who have three to five years of experience). These courses are developed and facilitated by individuals that are knowledgeable and experienced with the CII body of practices, benchmarking databases, and methodologies. Pathfinder's core project management training sessions focus on the following areas: project management orientation, project controls overview and contract administration.

Any of the courses can be CUSTOMIZED and presented on location to meet the needs of your project team.

Project Management Orientation (1 Day)

This module will provide an overview of the roles and responsibilities of the owner and contractor's project manager. Attendees will experience the perspective of the worldwide project planning and execution environment and how project management must react to changes in this ever-evolving industry. Attendees will also have the opportunity to better understand the function of the project manager and how creating an environment where others can work efficiently is the primary role.

Project Controls Overview (2 Days)

This module will provide attendees with an overview of the overall project controls process and how this integrates with the project delivery process. Project control planning aspects such as scope definition, cost management and schedule management will be broken down into topics to include cost estimating, planning, cost control, and schedule management. Supporting these topics will be discussions on scope control and change management. Aspects such as productivity, performance measurement and earned value will also be addressed.

Contract Administration (2 Days)

This module delivers the overall contracting process from contract strategy selection through the development of contract documents and contract administration. Lump sum, reimbursable, unit prices and incentive contract compensation approaches will be addressed, as well as contractor pre-screening, bid review and negotiations. Attendees can expect to discuss worldwide engineering and construction activity including the evolving contractor community and resource availability.

The Bundled Option

Combine all 3 of the above mentioned courses for a comprehensive 5-day, three-module professional development program.
